the Power of Life Insurance

VALUABLE DEATH BENEFIT PROTECTION

Life insurance has a powerful fundamental role – to bestow upon your beneficiary a full, tax-free death benefit in the event of a premature death. No other financial vehicle is as effective in providing financial security for your family should an untimely death occur. Your beneficiaries generally do not pay any income tax on the death benefit if it is paid in a lump sum.

With ING Indexed Universal Life-Global (ING IUL-Global) you have the flexibility to choose what death benefit option best suits your life insurance needs. Since financial goals can change, you can increase or decrease the death benefit within certain limits after the first year.

The Power of ING IUL-Global

BENEFITS OF LIFE INSURANCE

- Income tax-free death benefit
- Tax-deferred cash value accumulation
- Easy access to cash value through income-tax free loans and withdrawals

Choose between a Fixed or Indexed Strategy. Or Use Both Strategies.

The power of ING IUL-Global is the valuable death benefit protection. With this policy the cash values are calculated under a Fixed or an Indexed Strategy. This cash value is created in your policy when the premiums you pay – minus any cost of insurance, expense and rider charges – are credited with interest and any index credits.

The Fixed Strategy earns interest based upon a current credited interest rate declared by us that will be in effect for at least 12 months. At each policy anniversary the rate may vary, but it will never be less than the guaranteed minimum interest rate of 2% per year.

The Indexed Strategy gives you the opportunity for cash value accumulation through index crediting potential based, in part, on a portion of the performance of two out of three stock market indexes. Plus, interest will be credited to your policy's cash value through a guaranteed minimum interest rate of 1%, regardless of whether index credits are applied to the policy.

The Power of an Indexed Strategy with Hindsight

Rather than use a single index as the basis for its indexed interest crediting, ING IUL-Global uses a five year look-back period and three indexes that includes two indexes based on non-U.S. markets. In essence, at the end of each five-year period, the following is used in the calculation:

- 75% of the highest index change rate, plus
- 25% of the next highest index change rate; plus
- 0% of the lowest index change rate

This powerful combination of features has the potential to:

- Produce higher interest crediting rates than a single index crediting methodology where the single index is the same as in the ING IUL-Global
- Reduce volatility associated with year to year index changes

See the ING IUL-Global Buyer's Guide #154640 for details on how the index credit is calculated.

Please note: While policy values may be affected by external indexes, this policy is not an investment in the stock market and does not participate in any index fund, stock or equity investments. It is not designed to be an investment vehicle.

The Effect of Using Three Indexes

Below is a comparison of the S&P 500® Index, EURO STOXX 50® Index and Hang Seng Index used in ING IUL-Global. As the saying goes, "Hindsight is 20/20." You can see just how valuable hindsight is in our Indexed Strategy where there is never any guesswork on your part to try and predict the better performing indexes in the beginning. After all, would you have been able to predict these results? You may be surprised with the comparison in the graph below.

As you can see, the S&P 500® Index had the highest ranking when compared to the other two indexes only 8% of the time while the Hang Seng Index had the highest ranking 71% of the time. Even the EURO STOXX 50® Index ranked higher than the S&P 500® Index nearly three to one when compared to the other two indexes. However, even though the S&P 500® Index didn't finish first that often, when first and second place are combined, you find that 81% of the time the S&P 500® Index was ranked either first or second when compared to the other two indexes. It's also interesting to note that out of the three indexes, the S&P 500® Index ranked third when compared to the other two indexes the least often but was also ranked first the least often.

This information shows that the Hang Seng Index, EURO STOXX 50® Index and S&P 500® Index have all demonstrated volatility over the past several years. The Index Strategy attempts to minimize that volatility by using three indexes under a weighted formula. In this way, premiums elected to the Index Strategy can help build cash value to support the valuable death benefit offered under the policy.

These unmanaged indexes are not intended to represent specific investments. Investors cannot invest directly in an index. Past index performance does not represent future performance of these indexes. The finishing positions for each index were determined based on the changes in the value of each index between the 28th day of each month during the period shown and the same date five years earlier. The percentages shown reflect the number of times that each index had the highest (1st place), second highest (2nd place), and lowest (3rd place) 5-year index change rate on the 28th day of each month during the period. The data provided provides only a comparison of the indexes to each other and provides no information relative to the performance of the indexes during the period shown.

Tax-Deferred Cash Value Accumulation

So now you know where the potential for cash value lies in the ING IUL-Global policy. Even more attractive is that this money grows income tax-deferred. That means you aren't taxed on the earnings within in the policy until they are withdrawn.

Easy Access to Cash Value

Not only do you get a death benefit that can help provide security and protection to your loved ones, you may also get access to the cash value accumulation in your policy that you can withdraw or take out as loans¹ income tax-free². Yes, income tax-free.

With such easy access to your policy's cash values, you may be able to build that dream home. Or get to see your grandchildren more often. Because you may have access to money within your policy that may help make your retirement dreams come true.

¹ Loans and withdrawals may reduce or eliminate index credits, generate an income tax liability, reduce available cash value and reduce the death benefit, or cause the policy to lapse. Additionally, loans may limit your ability to make elections to the Indexed Strategy, if a loan results in amounts being deducted from a block prior to its block maturity date, no elections from the Fixed Strategy to the Indexed Strategy will be processed in the 36 months following the loan.

² Income tax free distributions are achieved by withdrawing to the cost basis (premiums paid), then using policy loans. This assumes the policy qualifies as life insurance, is not a modified endowment contract, and does not lapse with an outstanding loan. Individual tax results may vary. You should consult your attorney or other tax advisor.

The unique product design coupled with the important death benefit protection makes ING IUL-Global a powerful life insurance policy. Please talk to your ING representative further to see if these policies will meet your needs.
